

CUBA
6 July 1961

Approved For Release 1999/09/16 : CIA-RDP70-00058

CARBO MERCENARY 10 DISCARDED IN MIAMI

Havana Radio Mambi in Spanish 2330 GMT 4 July 1961--F

(Summary) There are all sorts of people in Miami: People in retirement, industrial magnates, speculators, merchants and war criminals, traitors and bandits who had fled from Cuba because of the Cuban revolution. At this time, there is in Miami a group of 10 men who are going from one place to the other. They are desperate and do not want to face reality. They are the mercenaries who a few days ago left for the second time for the United States to renegotiate their freedom, subject to the payment of an indemnity demanded by our revolutionary government.

Ulises Carbo is the leader of this group. We know Ulises Carbo. Radio Mambi has denounced the Carbo family from the very start of the revolution. Sergio Carbo, the father; Ulises Carbo, the son; and Humberto Medrano, the holy spirit of that cursed trinity, were flirting with the revolution in those days. We knew that Sergio Carbo was too closely connection with the Yankee embassy. We knew that PRENSA LIBRE had received checks from the Central Intelligence Agency. We knew that Ulises had sold out to the imperialists, and that Humberto Adrano was a lackey at the service of the monopolies and the companies.

Ulises does not have a history. He is an unhappy person with inherited defects, a little cretin called by his father to assist in the editing of a disgusting libel sheet. All three of them did swear and perjure themselves that they are on the side of the people. They showed their real colors soon. They proclaimed themselves champions of anticommunism. They saw red in everything. They were almost more anticommunists than Pepinille. Meanwhile, the Yankee embassy smiled and we smiled too. It did not take long before these three musketeers of impudence fled like rats into the welcoming arms of Uncle Sam. They made statements, they spoke over Radio Swan, conspired, and attacked the revolution.

Ulises came to Cuba as representative of the family in the April invasion. Ulises was captured while fleeing at great haste. Now, Ulises is running over there in the United States. "Behind him, nine other mercenaries are walking like meek little lambs." All of them are amazed. They cannot believe what is happening to them. And there is a reason for that. This is their second expedition.

All mercenaries, as our listeners will recall, did swear that they did not expect to find in Cuba a people ready to die in defense of their country. They said under oath that they had been deceived by the Central Intelligence Agency, which had organized the invasion by order of Mr. Kennedy. A few weeks ago, they went to Miami with Ulises as their leader to negotiate with